FISCAL ANALYSIS

ASSUMPTION

Officials from the Office of State Courts Administrator and Office of Prosecution Services assume this proposal would result in no fiscal impact to their agencies.

Officials from the Office of the State Public Defender assume that existing staff could provide representation for those 5-10 cases arising where indigent persons were charged with selling or attempting to sell a person less than eighteen years of age. However, passage of more than one similar bill would require the State Public Defender System to request increased appropriations to cover the cumulative cost of representing the indigent accused in the additional cases.

Officials from the Department of Corrections (DOC) assume that the type of criminal transaction defined in this proposal could possibly fall under the child endangerment statutes only with a significant increase in penalty provisions. However, data is not available to substantiate how many of these cases could involve the buying or selling of children.

Currently, the DOC cannot predict the number of new commitments which may result from the creation of the offense(s) outlined in this proposal. An increase in commitments depends on utilization by prosecutors and the actual sentences imposed by the court.

If additional persons are sentenced to the custody of the DOC due to the provisions of this legislation, the DOC will incur a corresponding increase in operational cost either through incarceration (FY99 average of $35.61 per inmate, per day) or through supervision provided by the Board of Probation and Parole (FY99 average of $2.47 per offender, per day).

The following factors contribute to DOC's minimal assumption:

- DOC assumes the narrow scope of the crime will not encompass a large number of offenders; and
- The probability exists that offenders would be charged with a similar but more serious offense or that sentences may run concurrent to one another.

The need for additional capital improvements is not anticipated at this time. It must be noted that the cumulative effect of various new legislation, if passed into law, could result in the need for additional capital improvements funding if the total number of new offenders exceeds current planned capacity.

ASSUMPTION (continued)

In summary, supervision by the DOC through probation or incarceration would result in some additional costs, but it is assumed the impact would be $0 or a minimal amount that could be absorbed within existing resources.

Oversight assumes the proposal could result in additional costs for supervision and care by the DOC. Although unknown, the amount would likely be less than $100,000 annually.
